

ONLY SIX HUNDRED HOTELS TO REMAIN

Out of Over Two Thousand Fourteen Hundred Will Be Closed by Raines Law.

A Careful Canvass Shows That in Many Police Precincts No Hotels Meet the New Requirements.

Chief Conlin Announces That if a Certified Copy of Amendments Arrives in Time He Will Enforce the Law To-day.

Of the 2,082 hotels in New York City it is estimated that 1,465 will be closed if the Raines law amendments are strictly enforced.

Chief of Police Conlin stated yesterday that if a certified copy of the amended law should arrive in the mail during the night, as he expects, he will give instructions to the department to put the new provisions in force to-day. That means that nearly three-quarters of the hotels that have heretofore been serving drinks with meals on Sundays cannot hereafter keep open on Sunday. They will be allowed to continue business; that is, to sell on week days between 5 and 1 o'clock a. m.

The number of hotels that must close was ascertained by a careful canvass of all the police precincts. It was found that nearly all of the saloons that a year ago ambitiously swung out hotel signs do not have the building arrangements required by the amended law. Even some of the old-time hotels, which have been doing a legitimate business, will be driven out.

The Clauses That Hurt.
The knock-out blow is the provision requiring that the ten stock bedrooms must be above the first floor; that they must be separated by partitions at least three inches thick; that each room must have a door leading into a hallway; a window with not less than eight square feet of surface, and that there must be at least eighty square feet area in each room, and 600 cubic feet of air space.

Additional consternation has been caused in the ranks of the Raines law hotel proprietors by the provision that these places must be equipped with a real kitchen, not an oil stove affair, and a dining room, with at least 300 square feet area and capacity for seating twenty guests. Even if these first-class accommodations could be provided there are few of the year-old hotels that have the fireproof cellings above the first floor, which are required there.

Whatever hope the hotel men had that the law might not be enforced was dispersed yesterday by the appointment of Frank Moss as Police Commissioner. He holds that the excise law should be strictly carried out, and Chief Conlin has declared that the law will be no letdown. If this is done, there will be only 617 places outside of the clubs in New York where liquors will be sold on Sunday. There are 6,370 hotels and hotels in the city to accommodate the week-day trade, so the favored 617 should do a rushing business with meals and refreshments on the side on Sunday.

Everybody'll Go to Jersey.

It is the opinion of the liquor dealers that thousands of the thirsty will go to New Jersey for beer and freedom once a week, and that the exodus will commence next Sunday. Hoboken is wide open, and schooners there will be no letdown. If this is done, there will be only 617 places outside of the clubs in New York where liquors will be sold on Sunday. There are 6,370 hotels and hotels in the city to accommodate the week-day trade, so the favored 617 should do a rushing business with meals and refreshments on the side on Sunday.

These Like the Law.

However, there are some right here in New York who commend the amendments. At a meeting of the St. Paul's Temperance Guild in Columbus Hall last night, the following was adopted:

Whereas, Since the passage of the Raines Law the law "fake" hotels have been kept open, and these "fake" hotels and clubs have been breeding spots of drunkenness and Sunday revelry.

Resolved, That the amendments to the law now successfully passed and signed by the Governor, which will close these "fake" hotels and clubs will be legislated out of existence, be commended.

Although liquor dealers are slow to apply the new restrictions in their business, many have already taken advantage of the privilege of restoring free lunches. There have already been several cases of Sunday street saloons in setting out free lunches. The locality is the rialto for vandevils and actors and there was loud rejoicing over the return of the good days of old.

Deputy Excise Commissioner Hilliard yesterday said that the police will have to enforce the enforcement of the new provisions.

"This department," he said, "has no facilities for enforcing the law. The precincts are expected, however, that the State Excise Inspectors, of whom there are to be one hundred, under direction of Fulton Street, will assist the police in enforcing the provisions, or else become merely saloons. The State Inspectors will be in the city within a few days, and the police will probably be the Journal's canvas of the various police precincts.

The Inspection by Precincts.
Of the fifteen hotels in the First Precinct, Old Slip Station, the police believe that all can continue. The precinct extends from the south side of Fulton street to the Battery, and from the east side of Broadway to the East River. The hotels in this territory are all old ones and have been used for many years. These used as hotels proper are said to conform within the requirements of the amended law.

In the Second Precinct, Church Street Station, it is estimated that thirty-four of the sixty-three hotels must close. This precinct embraces the territory from the south side of Warren street to the north side of Battery place, and from the west side of Broadway to the Hudson River. Many of the hotels are the result of the Raines law, and will be the victims of the new amendments. The Astor House and several other well appointed hotels are in this precinct. With the exception of a few others, which will probably meet the exactions, the rest must close under the new law.

All Must Close.

The Fourth Precinct, Oak Street station, contains fifty-six hotels, and all, it is believed, will be affected by the new provisions. The precinct embraces the territory from Catharine street to Fulton street, and from Park row to South street. All the hotels in it are the victims of the Raines law, and it is doubtful if a single one can be continued under the recent amendments to the law.

In the Fifth Precinct, Church Street station, there are thirty-three hotels, and twenty-six do not meet the new requirements. This precinct extends from the north side of Warren street to south side of Canal street, and from west side of Broadway to Hudson River. It is estimated that perhaps seven hotels in this district may withstand the exactions imposed by the new law. The Sixth Precinct, police station at No. 39 Elizabeth street, includes sections of such well known localities as Mulberry Bend, Hester, Mott, Doyers and Pell streets, and the population is decidedly heterogeneous. With Chinese, Italians and Jews of all nations in the majority. There are 126 saloons, and twenty-six of these are classed as Raines hotels. A half dozen or so of these may be able to meet the new building stipulations for the Sunday sale of liquor, and one or two are already making the necessary alterations. There are a good many liquor stores and literary clubs in this section which must close.

Of the thirty-seven hotels in the Seventh Precinct, Madison street, only two, it is estimated, can continue. This precinct extends from Catharine street to Scammon street, and from Division street to East River.

One-half May Keep Open.

There are twelve hotels in the Eighth Precinct, MacDougal street, and half are believed to be barred. This precinct includes Spring, Varick, Charlton and MacDougal streets.

The Twenty-five hotels in the Ninth Precinct, Charles street, an unlucky thirteen will probably be closed. The precinct takes in old and picturesque quarter of New York known as Greenwich village. Of the twenty-five hotels in the precinct, the most noted of which is the Columbia, on Greenwich avenue, only a dozen appear to meet the exactions of the amended Liquor Tax law.

All but One Must Close.

Only one of the thirty hotels in the Tenth Precinct (Mulberry street) comes up to the requirements, the police state. That one is the Occidental, on Broome street, near the Bowery.

The Eleventh Precinct includes the portion of the Bowery between Houston and Division streets and extends south to Norfolk with Clinton as its eastern boundary. It is densely populated by foreigners, and of its one hundred hotels only four are legitimate. The remainder are one or two of these may be obliged to make alterations in buildings to conform to the new measure.

The Twelfth Precinct runs from Rivington street to the East River, and from Suffolk to Division street. The population is 90 per cent Hebrew, mostly Russian Jews. The precinct has but two legitimate hotels, and one of these has no kitchen, but is reported that they were thirty-five "hotels" which offer rooms to visitors on Grand memorial day. All but one of these must be content to sell liquors only six days a week.

The Thirteenth Precinct, Union Market, contains 205 saloons, and thirty-two of these are known as Raines law hotels. Not over a half-dozen of these can afford to continue in the hotel business.

More Than a Hundred in Jeopardy.
The Fourteenth Precinct Station House at No. 81 First avenue, includes foreign population of the fairly prosperous class, and has a number of good-sized saloons with family entrances. There are 119 Raines law hotels, and only five will probably undertake to provide thick walls for guests to allow them to take rooms. In order to get something to drink on Sunday.

In the Fifteenth Precinct, there are forty-nine hotels, and thirty-five are estimated to meet the law. Several of the worst hotels in New York are to be found in the Fifteenth Precinct. None of the so-called Raines hotels in the neighborhood of Clinton place and Washington square can survive a strict enforcement of the amended Liquor Tax law.

At doing a legitimate hotel business, a sandwich being the only "meal" procurable at any hour on any day and under any circumstances.

The police believe that all of the twenty hotels in the Sixteenth Precinct, West Twelfth street, must be shut up. The precinct extends from the East River to the Hudson River, and from Seventh avenue to the North River. Generally speaking, the hotels of the precinct are hotels in name only.

The Seventeenth Precinct, West Twelfth street, must be shut up. The precinct extends from the East River to the Hudson River, and from Seventh avenue to the North River. Generally speaking, the hotels of the precinct are hotels in name only.

The Eighteenth Precinct lies between Fourteenth and Twenty-second streets, and is populated by the middle classes and includes quite a prosperous business district. It has altogether eighty-four hotels, of which sixty-two are Raines law hotels. The precinct cannot hope to come within the scope of the new amendments. There are forty hotels in the precinct that will be obliged to close their doors.

Fifty-nine in the Tenderloin.

It is estimated by the police that fifty-nine of the 104 hotels in the Nineteenth Precinct will be closed. This precinct is the famed Tenderloin, and is bounded by Fourteenth and Forty-second streets and Fourth and Seventh avenues. Within this territory there are forty-five established hotels that were in existence as such before the Raines law was passed. Captain Chapman, who is in command of the precinct, declines to discuss the amended law, but of his intention under it. He is awaiting orders from the Chief and a certified copy of the law, which he intends to enforce, the law, the latter Captain Chapman will find that the fifty-nine hotels which he carries on his excise register as "R. L." will fail to stand the test and will be reconverted into plain, old-style saloons.

Only one of the 123 hotels in the Twentieth Precinct, West Thirty-seventh street, is believed to be safe. This precinct embraces the territory between Twenty-seventh and Forty-second streets and Seventh avenue and the Hudson River. It is in charge of Captain Schmittberger, who said there were 123 so-called hotels in this precinct. Of this number, one, the West Shore, on Forty-second street, will pass inspection under the law as it is now framed. All the rest are open violations of the Excise law, and will be closed.

There are eighty-four hotels in the Twenty-first Precinct, East Fifty-fifth street, and eighty-four in the Twenty-second Precinct, West Forty-seventh street. This district is on the center West Side and is bounded by Forty-second and Fifty-ninth streets. Sixth avenue and the Hudson River. The district is one in which the Sunday liquor traffic is enormous, and the abolition of the fake hotel will cause most discontent here than perhaps any other section of the city.

There are ninety-eight hotels in the Twenty-third Precinct, and it is estimated that only ten can continue. This precinct is on the East Side, bounded by Forty-second and Fifty-ninth streets. Sixth avenue and the Hudson River. Captain Steinhauser said that not to exceed ten of the ninety-eight hotels licensed now held in the precinct can be reconverted under the terms of the Raines law, as now in force.

But ten of the hotels in the Twenty-fourth Precinct (West Sixty-eighth Street) and the Twenty-fifth Precinct (East Sixty-eighth Street), bounded by Fifty-ninth and Eighty-first streets, Central Park and Hudson River, contains some of the first hotels in the city, but it also has thirty-four saloon hotels that must cease to masquerade as houses of entertainment as soon as the police are charged with the enforcement of the amended law.

The Twenty-sixth Precinct extends from Fifty-ninth to Seventy-ninth street and from East River to the Hudson River. According to the officers there are 125 saloons. Fully sixty of these will be unable to continue business if the new law is rigidly enforced.

The Twenty-seventh Precinct extends from Eighty-first to One Hundred and Tenth streets, and from Lenox avenue to the river. There are about sixty hotels in the precinct, the majority of them being Raines law places. It is said that most of the hotels opened under the provisions of the Raines law are well equipped and will be able to comply with the amended law.

In the Twenty-eighth Precinct there are sixty-seven hotels, and at least a dozen of these will be obliged to retire under the amended law. That estimate is away below what will actually occur if the police are obliged to strike the law.

The Twenty-ninth Precinct extends from Seventy-ninth street to Ninety-sixth street and from Third avenue to the East River. The provisions of the law relating to this precinct are the same as those of the Twenty-eighth Precinct, and it contains one hundred and twenty-five saloon hotels. Seventy-five of these hotels will have to close under the new law.

The Thirtieth Precinct runs from One Hundred and Sixteenth street to One Hundred and Eighty-fourth street and from Lenox avenue to the river. The precinct has forty-four Raines law hotels. A conservative estimate places the number that will have to close as nineteen.

Captain Devoy, in command of the Thirtieth Precinct, which lies between One Hundred and Tenth street and One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, and extends from Lenox avenue to the North River. There are sixty-one hotels in the precinct. Nearly one-half will close.

There are twenty hotels in the Thirty-first Precinct, Kingsbridge. Of these fifteen are professing of the Raines law variety, but inasmuch as twelve of the fifteen have already complied with the requirements of the amended law, only two of them will have to go.

An immediate effect of the amended law will be the closing of the fifty-two of the forty-two hotels in the Thirty-second Precinct.

There are fifty-three hotels in the Thirty-third Precinct, which is commanded by Captain Creedon. Of these twenty-five do not meet the requirements of the amended law, and will be closed.

The Thirty-fourth Precinct has thirty-eight hotels. Under a strict enforcement of the law twenty of them will cease to do business.

The Thirty-fifth Precinct, Kingsbridge, will feel the effects of a strict enforcement of the amended Liquor Tax law. Those provisions of the law relating to floor surface and air space will send six hotels out of business. There are eighteen hotels in the precinct. Fifteen of these are known as Raines law establishments.

There are fifty hotels in the Thirty-sixth Precinct, commanded by Acting Captain Brennan. Twenty of them will close.

The Thirty-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Thirty-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Thirty-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fortieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Forty-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fiftieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Fifty-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixtieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Sixty-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Seventy-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eightieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Eighty-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninetieth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-first Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-seventh Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-eighth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The Ninety-ninth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundredth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and First Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and Second Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and Third Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and Fourth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and Fifth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.

The One Hundred and Sixth Precinct, which includes City Island, Westchester, Williamsbridge and Wakefield, has ninety-five hotels, most of them being Raines law hotels. Captain Piers, who is in command of the precinct, estimates that at least forty-seven of them must close.